Cherry Blossom in Japan

Sakura trees are often called Japanese cherry in English.

Sakura Season is Japan's annual spring "cherry blossom" season, which typically occurs from late March to early April, though the exact timing varies by region. It's a cultural event known as Hanami (flower viewing), where people celebrate the transient beauty of the delicate pink and white blossoms. The blossoms start in the south and move northward, with bloom times ranging from January in Okinawa to as late as May in Hokkaido.

Experience an unforgettable vacation to Japan in Cherry Blossom, the most Popular season of Japan.
